USDA ANNOUNCES FEDERAL FUNDING

(City of Three Rivers to Receive a $1,282,500 grant)

Three Rivers, Texas, October 22, 2002 — Bryan Daniel, state director, Texas USDA Rural Development announced today that the city of Three Rivers received a $1,282,500 grant through the agency's Rural Utilities Service Water and Waste Loan and Grant program. The effort is part of USDA's national program to help provide rural areas with safe, dependable water and modern sewage systems.

"One of the goals of USDA Rural Development is to provide water and wastewater treatment programs that target public health benefits and provide economic opportunities to America's rural communities," said Daniel. "Rural residents can utilize our programs to help provide essential public services that will enhance their quality of life."

The funds will be used to construct a combined intake and pump structure at the eastern end of Choke Canyon Reservoir and water transmission line to the existing treatment plant. This project is needed to eliminate difficulties with treatment capacity of the water treatment plant due to high turbidity in their present raw water source, and it will reduce operation and maintenance costs. The population of Three Rivers is approximately 1,875.

In Fiscal Year 2001, $65.5 million of loan and grant assistance was infused into 29 rural Texas communities. USDA's water and wastewater program is designed to bring fresh, clean drinking water and sanitary, environmentally sound sewage facilities to rural America's 53 million residents. Loans and grants are available to rural communities of fewer than 10,000 residents. Public bodies, corporations operated on a nonprofit basis, and Indian tribes, that are unable to obtain credit from other sources at reasonable rates and terms, are eligible for assistance.
